- Font subset data is incomplete
- No PDF/UA identifier (file does not declare itself accessible)
- No tag structure at all (screen readers get no headings, lists or reading order)
- Window shows the file name instead of the document title
- Content that is neither tagged nor marked as decoration
- No document title in metadata

- Original had 244 failed checks: untagged, sideways category labels read out of order.
- Rebuilt as headings per category with a term-and-instruction list for each source.
- Language tags on the Spanish, Chinese and Korean labels.
- Decorative icons left out (they repeated the text).

Still to do before delivery to a client: a person reads the file with a screen reader (NVDA) to confirm reading order and alt text, and the agency approves the rebuilt layout. Rebuilt files carry the same content as the original, not a pixel copy of its design.
